About the organizers

MaxTex is an international association founded in 2014 by textile manufacturers, fabricators, raw material producers, textile service providers and scientific institutions. It combines the goal of ensuring sustainable action along the entire textile value chain. Corporate responsibility in social, ecological and economic terms is equally at the centre of attention www.maxtex.eu ecos creates value added for the environment, society and the economy with the aim of improving livelihoods over a long term. Ecos is picking up the topic of circular economy in the project Circular Cities Switzerland, is representing MaxTex Switzerland and active in various programs among sustainable textiles www.ecos.ch

Good Brand Guru is a professional network association that brings together sustainability experts and fashion retail professionals looking for ways to make the industry more social and environmentally sustainable. Good Brand Guru organises (networking) events and knowledge sharing webinars to support fashion and lifestyle brands to thrive economically as well as become or remain socially and environmentally sustainable www.goodbrand.guru
